

Hello Parents/ Guardians,

Your child is enrolled in Beginning Film and Animation. This course focuses on the basics of film and animation. This year your student will be watching various films in class to analyze them for a better understanding of the unit we are studying. We will be watching various films in which the students will look for character, plot and symbolic archetypes as well as common visuals and editing examples. Students will be completing projects that coincide with the films we are watching. The students will get the chance to see how real editors, directors, cinematographers, and other professional film makers create movies.

I believe firmly that these films will help your student understand the concepts that we will be discussing. However, you are the parent/guardian and are the final arbitrator of what your child may view. I am going to include all films as part of this permission slip. If you object to any of the films that may be viewed, you may make an objection to those films. If any films are added during the course of the class that are not G or PG, you will be receiving an email. The films that are not rated G or PG, will only be shown as scenes that match with the unit being studied. I have also edited or altered scenes from all the movies that IMDB's Parental Guide has flagged. Feel free to view the Parent's Guide on imdb.com for each of the films for a breakdown of what may be questionable in the films if you are not familiar with the film. If you have an issue with a specific film on the list, please make sure you note that below, and I will make different accommodations for your child. Please sign and return this with your student on Wednesday, 8/15.
